Dear Kevin,

I trust this e-mail finds you all well... have received the following response (of sorts) from Aalasdair Stratton regarding community involvement in CMP for Lake Conjola - possibly now? This aside, I have spoken with Shelley about RHVA's exclusion from meeting on Wednesday and discussed whether Conjola CCB should attend and her advice was that the meeting will go ahead without us regardless... so, best we are there to at least have our presentation minuted and recorded. As such, the Conjola Executive have voted to attend but have our concerns about RHVA exclusion from the meeting minuted. Will send you presentation when completed before Wednesday's meeting.

Stay well and talk soon.

Regards, Dirk Treloar

Dirk

My apologies for the delay in responding to this email, but as you can appreciate I have a lot on at present. In relation to the current Coastal Management Program for the open coast, St Georges Basin and Lake Conjola, we have engaged Advision Pty Ltd (same mob that did the coastal hazard review 2016) to prepare the scoping study for the CMP.

The scoping study will identify the exact scope of the CMP and may or may not recommended the inclusion of the estuaries, we have had significant delays on this project but I believe we are on track. The scoping study will prepare a stakeholder engagement strategy, which clearly outline the what, how and when engagement/consultation will take place, which off course will involve both CCB's in the Lake Conjola catchment.

Currently the scoping study report is due to be finalised by April, then we will then move to tender out the preparation of the CMP from there, with deadline to finish the CMP be the end of the year.

Dear Alasdair,

I trust this e-mail finds you well... Please be advised that Red Head Village Association (Bendalong CCB) and Conjola Community Association (Conjola CCB) are collaborating on a Master Plan for Lake Conjola/Red Head Village and one of the key components is management of the lake estuary and entrance. To which, end both Associations respectfully request an update from Council on the status of the CMP and confirmation of when both Associations can expect to participate in the process. Thanking you in advance and enjoy your week.

Regards, Dirk
